

History

Lancing Repertory Players are a drama society which was founded back in the 1930s. Originally Miss Manson put on a play entitled "Bunty Pulls The Strings" and it was this which caused the cast to form the Lancing Amateur Dramatic Society. This group produced two shows a year from 1932 to 1940 when the war intervened.

The society formed again in 1945 and put on a play every six weeks at the Luxor Cinema. This could seat up to one thousand. Plays continued here until 1951, the last performed there being "Bird in the Hand" By this time, the society had changed its name to the one it still bears today.

We continued to present five shows a year until the 1990s when we reduced to four in the face of the availability of other forms of entertainment.

In due course we were allowed to build our rehearsal rooms on a plot of land in Wembley Gardens and this is where we still meet twice a week to work on our productions.

In recent years we have moved from to a regular three productions each year. These are in January – the Pantomime, April and July. However we still have the option in the schedule for a further production in October. Our productions are staged at Lancing Parish Hall in South Street, Lancing.

How to Find Us

We are 10 - 15 minutes walk from Lancing Station and the centre of the Town. Access by car is via the top end of Wembley Avenue. We have a gated car park adjacent to the Headquarters building.
